

To Whom it May Concern:

First, let me start by describing briefly my wife's complicated illness.

Some twelve months ago Betty was diagnosed with a rare neurological disease. It's called P.S.P. or Progressive Supranuclear Palsy. She has had a very bad balance problem leading to falls, bruises, and broken bones. She also suffers from a heart dysfunction that limits her breathing and requires oxygen. For both diseases she takes more than a dozen medications each day.

In the month of October 2006, she was sent twice by ambulance to the Valley View Hospital in the middle of the night.

Throughout all of this, I have never felt for one moment that I could not call Dr. Kruse at any time of the day or night and not get his immediate interest.

I don't know what others want from a physician, but I cannot imagine a more concerned person than Dr. Tim Kruse. I am so very glad that we have him as our Family Practitioner.....

Sincerely,
